-NCI Staff Member

For the past two years, the National Cancer Institute has relied on people like you to represent the views of cancer survivors and family members in our programs and activities. The Consumer Advocates in Research and Related Activities (CARRA) program members have participated in many NCI activities. Most often they have participated in the peer review process to help evaluate cancer research grants and have reviewed cancer education materials.

The CARRA program is entering its next stage of development, and would like to recruit new CARRA members in specific disease areas where there isn't already extensive representation. We are looking for enthusiastic and committed individuals with experience in the following cancers:

- Bladder
- Brain
- Gastrointestinal
- Leukemia
- Liver
- Lung
- Melanoma
- Stomach/Esophageal
- Testicular

We strongly encourage minority applications in each of these areas.

- ✦ Are you a cancer survivor or patient?
- or
- ✦ Are you a family member or partner of a cancer survivor?
- or
- ✦ Do you have more than 3 years involvement in cancer-related activities?

For more information and an application, please visit us online at <http://la.cancer.gov/CARRA>

If you are unable to submit your application electronically, you may mail it to:
